Volume Three

MIRROR

W. B. VAN GORDER,

To our superintendent, Mr. W. B. Van Gorder, that benevolent and kind-hearted man who has so willingly helped us through our High School life, we affectionately dedicate this volume as an expression of our respect and gratitude.

FOREWORD

We present to you this little book with a great mixture of feelings. The Albion High School has not published an annual since 1913, and it was with some doubts and after much deliberation that we finally determined to get out this year book. Once decided upon we set to work with a resolution to make good. We have done our best and thank those of the other classes and of the faculty who so readily came to our assistance and support. The final success of the Mirror, however, depends as much upon the readers as it has upon those who have made and assembled it, and we wish that you would read it all through and if you find faults as you surely will, you will look not at them but at its virtues, at the spirit that has gone into its making. If in reading you get one good laugh, one new thought, or an old one in an interesting way, or a good idea of our high school body then we shall be fully repaid for our efforts. Enough, we leave the book to you.

SENIORS

FRED E. PRICKETT

Editor-in-Chief of Annual.
President Class.
President Athletic Association.
Class Play '21-'22.
Basketball '21-'22.
High School Chorus '20-'21-'22.

Fred, the editor-in-chief of the "Mirror" has been busy keeping everybody else busy. He has been president of our class for three years and wo don't know what the class would have done without him. Fred's favorite song is, "Oh, What a Pal was Mary." We can truthfully say "Here is a true and industrious friend."

R. LEE MATTHEWS

Vice-President Class
Class Play '21-'22.
High School Chorus '20-'21-'22.

Lee is a real chip off the old block, hence better known as "Danny." He can certainly succeed at most anything he undertakes, providing he isn't too busy with something else.

VERA M. CALLAHAN

Assistant Editor of Annual.
Secretary Class.
Class Play '21-'22.
High School Chorus '19-'20-'21-'22.

There are two things that Vera cannot positively do, first cut a class and second, fail to make a star recitation. We will certainly have to hand it to Vera when it comes to talking, that being her main delight. Some of her longest discourses are on "Bob."

ATHENE L. CLAYTON

Joke editor of annual.
Treasurer of Class.
Class Play '21-'22.
H. S. Chorus '19-'20-'21-'22.

An attractive maid is Athene, and as amiable as the day is long. Athene would rather read novels than eat, but she would rather dance than read novels. She shines at anything she takes up and our staff would not have been complete without her.

LEO. F. CLER

Athletic Editor of Annual.
Basketball '21, Capt. '22.
Class Play '21-'22.
H. S. Chorus '21-'22.

This is a rare and curious bird distinguished particularly by its ears and beek. Leo is the "Big Boy" of the class and we are indeed fond of him when he is in his B. B. togs and at pole vaulting. Good luck, Leo.

BONNIE F. RINARD

Alumni Editor Annual.
H. S. Chorus '21-'22.

Bonnie came to us as a Sophomore from LaOtto and our first impression of her was that she was rather quiet,—but that was before we really knew her. When you really get acquainted with her you will change your mind.

EDITH A. RIMMEL

Calendar Editor Annual.
Class Play '22.
Basketball '20-'21, Capt. '22.
H. S. Chorus '20-'21-'22.

Edith is a close observer of all that goes on around her. She never lets her studies interfere with her pleasures and she is having fun most of the time.

MARY K. YOST

Art Editor Annual.
Class Play '22.

Mary is the artistic member of our class and we feel that this annual would have been somewhat of a failure had it not been for her ability. Mary is rather quiet and you may not know her, but she may be identified as the girl who goes to and from school with our class president.

FORREST HOFFMAN

Class Play '21.
H. S. Chorus '21-'22.

We are very glad to have kept Forrest with us this year for by his numerous trips to Muncie, we thought he would be trying to enter Normal before his graduation. From all indications we expect to find him there soon. Here's success to you as a pedagogue.

RUBY M. CLELAND

Assistant Alumni Editor of Annual.

Ruby is one of our studious country members who drives to school each morning. She says that the town chap may be all right, but the country lad for mine.

VIRGIL B. CONRAD

Class Play '22.

Virgil comes from the country and doesn't waste much time at tomfoolery, but does his work with energy and zeal. Whatever he may take up we are sure he will win and we all wish him the greatest success.

KATHERINE L. BECK

Business Manager of Annual.
Class Play '21-'22.
Basketball '20 '21-'22.
H. S. Chorus '19 '20-'21-'22.

Her habits are studious—sometimes. Katherine is a hustler when it comes to class parties or managing an annual. She is certainly not afflicted with bashfulness or timidity.

HELEN A. MURRAY

Assistant Calendar Editor.
Class Play '22.

This member of our class is the only one who persisted in taking more than the required amount of Latin. We thought it impossible to tear her from her books until we heard of her trip to Michigan.

FORD O. MARQUISS

Basketball '20-'21.

Ford has been a member of our class but one year, but in this time we discovered that his greatest delight is asking questions and starting an argument on any issue that may arise.

VELMA P. M. SEIP

Literary Editor of Annual.
Class Play '22.
H. S. Chorus '20-'21-'22.

Velma is little, yes, but believe me she is capable of making a good deal of noise when necessary and the faculty thinks sometimes when not necessary. Here's good luck to you, Velma.

CARL M. GAPPINGER

Class Play '21.

By his laugh ye shall know him. Carl's motto is "never do today what you can put off until tomorrow." He is the Abe Martin of the class and is greatly amused at all witticisms. Carl's specialty is mechanics.

MARIE A. HAYS

It is hard to get anything on Marie. She is so quiet and unobtrusive that you scarcely notice her. If everyone were as quiet as she, faculty meetings would not be needed for the purpose of making out deportment grades.

WARREN C. HASTINGS

Hastings certainly is some rare bird. Newton and Galileo never had anything on Hastings when it comes to Physics. Warren is a shark here and will probably end up as a Physics instructor, or an electrician. He has been laboratory manager and school house electrician for the last four years.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

FALL, 1918.

1. Here there was a gathering of the people, and Leland, the son of Ayres, was chosen to rule. And there of the chief men and women of the tribe. And the name of the tribe was called Freshmen.

2. And Leland appointed those who should find colors for the tribe, and yells and a tribal flower, that they might be distinguished from the Sophomores who were enemies to them.

3. Now when the colors were found, and they wore them, the Sophomores were enraged.

4. And the Sophomores fought against them, and pressed them hard, but the Freshmen did not flee before the Sophomores, nor did they give up the battle.

5. And it came to pass after a time that the Freshmen prepared for themselves a feast at the house of one of their people.

6. And the place was the house of Ravenscroft.

7. Great stores of food were prepared, and stored carefully in the cellar.

8. And it came to pass, that when the tribe was all gathered together, the Sophomores came up and encamped about them. And certain of the Sophomores began to diligently explore the house and the grounds.

9. And after a time, they found a place whereby they might enter the cellar.

10. Now having entered, they soon found the food, which had been prepared for the Freshmen feast. And having tasted thereof, they forgot that it is written, "Thou shalt not steal" and carried away all of the food.

11. And when they had done this and securely hidden what they did not eat, they caused a great uproar, and drew the Freshmen out of the house into the courtyard, where they completely surrounded them.

12. And when they had surrounded them completely, they administered unto them iodine on the ears, and shoe polish to their nose, until they had exhausted themselves of their hate, and the Freshmen losed themselves and made their way homeward.

13. And it came to pass that the terrible plague descended upon these people, known as the flu.

14. Many of the tribe being afflicted, they left their duties for forty days and forty nights.

15. And the rest of the year was spent in peace and prosperity.

FALL, 1919.

1. And here Leland would rule no longer, and the people seeing this went to Fred, and said unto him, "Behold, we have no ruler. Now we are the same tribe, and thou has always been faithful to us. Moreover, in times past, even when Leland was king, thou didst often lead forth our armies to battle. Therefore, we would have thee rule over us."

2. And Fred ruled long and faithfully in the land.

3. And the name of the tribe was now changed. And it was now called Sophomores. And those who had been Sophomores, were now Juniors.

4. And behold the tribes had new enemies, and these were Freshmen.

5. So they waged a war against them, and many were slain on both sides. But the Sophomores were victorious, for they were the better warriors.

6. During the reign of Fred, it happened that the tribe was having a merry-making, as was their want. And there was much mirth and feasting and laughter. And when they were off their guard the warriors came upon them and surprised them.

7. And confusion was rife in the camp, and there was fear least the warriors might overcome them.

8. However the leader soon quieted the multitude, and once more peace reigned.

9. Again the tribes met in dreadful conflict, near the close of the second year of our rule.

10. And the Seniors and Sophomores ascended to the third floor and succeeded in setting up their banners on the house-top.

11. In vain the Juniors and Freshmen sought to remove the banners.

12. Thus, ended the Sophomore year.

FALL, 1920.

1. And still Fred ruled over the people.

2. Now the tribe was alled "Juniors," and those who had been Juniors were Seniors. And those who had been Freshmen were Sophomores. And there were some new Freshmen.

3. And his reign was peaceful and quiet, and the people prospered.

4. And there were many merry-makings in his reign.

5. Among the festivities of the year was a drama by the name of "Safety First."

6. A great multitude assembled to see the drama, which they highly praised.

7. After many days had expired a great feast was made unto the Seniors, and a tribe called, Faculty, at the palace of King Fred.

8. And the hangings were many colors.

9. There was food and wine in abundance.

10. And there was much mirth and feasting and laughter which continued far into the night.

11. Therefore, the feast being ended, they departed with great rejoicing.

12. And it came to pass, that the following day was spent in sports.

13. One man was injured and borne from the field. However, the Juniors were victorious.

14. And the Freshmen and Juniors set their banners upon the housetop.

15. Behold when the Sophomores saw it, they were wrought, and they feared to take it down.

16. In the sixth month these tribes met with neighboring tribes to test the strength of their people, and were victorious again.

FALL, 1921.

1. And the reign of King Fred continued over the people.

2. During his reign, the Seniors made truce with Ross, king of the Sophomores, and aided him in his battles against the Freshmen and Juniors.

3. And now the king consulted with the leaders and all their people and said, "If it seems good unto you, let us put forth a 'Mirror' and send it abroad to our brethren."

4. And all the tribe said they would do so, for the "Mirror" seemed good in the eyes of the people of the neighboring tribes.

5. The people of the tribe saw fit to present yet another drama in accordance with the custom.

6. Great preparations were made and the drama was presented which was received with great praise, and was repeated again and again.

7. On the twelfth day of the second month another fete was prepared.

8. They assembled all their people and invited all the neighboring tribes to be present.

9. And there was much mirth, feasting and laughter. They departed at a late hour, rejoicing.

10. Hereafter, the people prospered and there were many merry-makings unto the end of King Fred's reign.

Finis.

SENIORS OF '22

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is just a sweet, sweet dream,
For you kept me from my slumbers
Searching, searching, for a theme.

I worked long, and I was earnest,
But I could not reach the goal;
My brain left e're it returneth,
This is what filled up the hole.

This is the class—the first-class class,
The class classed 'mong the classic,
This class of class, is the class of class
Whose efforts are not fantastic.

When classing this class with those of its class.
The class classed by the masses,
As the long years pass each lad and lass
Will be proud of this Class of Classes."

YELL

Rum-tiddy-um-tum, Tiddy-um-tee,
Who are, who are, who are we?
We are Seniors of the A. H. S.
Seniors, Seniors, Well I guess.

SENIOR CLASS SONG

We're a class that's quite fast,
Our good day's aren't past,
We're always in something so mean.
Our teachers are unjust.
They say study, we must,
But don't you think we're so green.

Chorus.

Now a class just like us,
Can stir up a fuss,
Or we can be so good and kind and always mind.
We're full of pep!
So watch our step!
We've always though, while others slept.
Now a class just like ours,
We never keep late hours.
We've always had good grades you'll find.
We are the class of '22.
Yes Seniors never blue.
We'll leave the rest of the classes behind.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Los Angeles, Calif.
June 5, 1932.

Miss Bonnie Rinard,
Peking, China.

Dear Bonnie:

I was very glad to hear from you as I want to keep in touch with all my old classmates.

Katherine and I are starring for Paramount pictures and we are hard at work on our next picture which is "Why Girls Leave Home," in three parts.

Last week I received a 1932 "Mirror" from Leo Cler who is teaching in the Albion High School. Looking over the Alumni, I found accounts of every member of the class of '22.

MIRROR

Did you know that Carl Gappinger is tripping the light fantastic toe in the Ziegfield Follies. Ruby is his dancing partner. They have all New York at their feet.

Of course you know that Vera has taken the veil and is at St. Mary's Convent trying to mend her broken-heart. Her fiance eloped with a manicurist on her wedding day. Vera's life has indeed been sad.

Warren Hastings has revived again the name of Hastings by being known throughout the world for his wonderful achievements along the radio line.

I also see in the "Mirror" that Forrest Hoffman is residing on the old Hoffman homestead and making a great success as a stock-raiser.

Our old chum, Edith, is married and living in a rose-covered cottage along the Hudson. Her husband has sold his retaurant and they are raising mushrooms.

Virgil Conrad is a minister and is preaching the Gospel in Dallas, Texas. You know Virgil always seemed inclined toward the ministry.

I see that Marie Hayes is a Red Cross nurse and has gone abroad. I can hardly imagine Marie as a nurse, can you?

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Matthews are living in Canada. Lee is an electrical engineer and Velma is quite well known as an authoress. Velma's latest book is "Lovey Dovey." Have you read it?

Ford has never married and is touring the south in the interests of the anti-tobacco league. He is called the silver-tongued orator of the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prickett are out here in California. Fred is the Prof. of Physics in the University of California. Mary has gained fame by her illustrations in the Ladies Home Journal. They were in Los Angeles last week and came to see me. It was just like old times.

Katherine just came in and she sends her love and says to tell you she likes the movies very much.

I suppose you are enjoying your work among the heathen and are well and happy. Wishing you future success, I remain your friend and classmate.

ATHENE CLAYTON.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1922, about to leave this sphere, in full possession of a sound mind and understanding, do make and publish this our last will and testament:

FIRST:

We request that our funeral services be conducted by our friends and well-wishers, the Faculty.

AS TO OUR ESTATES

Item 1. We give to the Freshmen, the following advice, following which will lead them to glory: "Follow the example of '22. Learn to work if not to win; development comes sooner through failures (we know) and staying after school than through successes."

Item 2. The Senior dignity and good behavior we bequeath to the Juniors.

Item 3. Our privilege of seats in the north side of the Assembly Room we leave to the Juniors, providing they occupy them at eighty-thirty promptly, every morning and at one every noon.

Item 4. The whole Senior class bequeaths its deportment grades to the Freshmen as a ground work from which to build.

Item 5. —Our strings for Geometry, we give to the Juniors as an incentive to take Solid. Please call for them before tearing down is begun on the old building.

Item 6. We give to the Faculty our appreciation and good will. They have done their duty nobly.

The following are recorded as personal privileges and properties, and are willingly given to the persons mentioned.

1st. Carl Gappinger bequeaths his ability to do most anything and get away with it, to Don Barcus.

2nd. Velma, Helen, and Vera bequeath their privileges of letter writing during school hours to Loretta, Ruby, and Evelyn.

3rd. Leo bequeaths his privilege of napping to his brother, Raymond, providing he can do so without snoring.

4th. Warren leaves his superiority in Physics to Don Favinger.

5th. Katherine and Edith grant to Mayme and Grace their privilege of reading in Physics.

6th. Virgil leaves his cares of maintaining a pompadour to Woodward.

7th. Marie gives her silent disposition to anyone with whom it may agree.

8th. Lee leaves his office of presiding over the encyclopedias and the dictionary for Mr. Van Gorder in History and English to the person with the biggest voice. Contestants Don and Harold, others to apply to the executor of this will.

9th. Edith bequeaths her B. B. pep to Ruby.

10th. Forrest leaves his audible appreciation of a good joke to Don Halferty. Make it audible.

11th. Bonnie leaves her good fortune of missing marching out at noon to whoever can use it best.

12th. Athene grants to Mildred her privilege of screaming aloud in Physics at any glimpse of the word "electricity."

13th. Lee and Velma authorize the Juniors to organize a new admiration society for 1923.

Besides these enforced gifts we leave you our pledged friendship, henceforth.

All the rest of the property not disposed of we give to the Albion High School for their use and benefit. Any pupil who sees fit to use the knowledge and startling information given to the Seniors may do so. As our said administration we appoint Professor Van Gorder.

In witness whereof, we, the Class of 'Twenty-Two, set our hand and seal this fourteenth day of April, nineteen hundred and twenty-two.

(SEAL) CLASS OF 'TWENTY-TWO.

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the above named class of 'Twenty-two as and for their last will and testament in the presence of us who have hereunto subscribed our names at its request as witness thereunto in the presence of the said testator and of each other.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

Our class was organized in September, 1918 and the officers were elected who have carefully guided and governed us thus far through our high school career.

In 1919, we entered high school. Were we studious? Indeed we were, and yet we found time for the usual class parties. We distinctly remember our first one which was attended by several upper-classmen. It was then that we passed through that much-dreaded ordeal, our initiation. Generous quantities of iodine and shoe-polish were used and through it all we were meek and submissive as Freshmen should always be. As a class we did excellent work in this first year although several became discuraged and left us during this term.

We came back to school in September, 1920, with high hopes for our success although many had told us that the work in the Sophomore year was very difficult. We can say that we did not find it too hard for us. It might have been the fact that we had excellent teachers, but we like to think that it was because of the extraordinary brilliance of our class.

And now, we are Juniors. We have encountered this year the difficulties that the Junior class usually finds. Aside from the hard work in school we have been planning for the reception in honor of the faculty and the "high and mighty Seniors."

Our class has always had the proper class spirit and has never allowed it to overshadow our love for the A. H. S. as a whole.

JUNIOR POEM

We're a jolly bunch of Juniors,
As you can plainly see,
But when it comes to solid work,
We're studious as can be.

Although our class is not so large,
Eighteen to be exact;
With aims ahead and cares behind,
Not anything we lack.

You talk of Freshmen, Sophomores, too,
And Seniors dignified,
Give me the happy Juniors,
With mirth exemplified.

Ye, we're the jolliest bunch of Juniors
That ever you did see,
And you will hear from us again
In nineteen Twenty-Three.

YELL

Humpty, Dumpty, Hoopty, Dee!
We're the Class of Twenty-Three;
Bickety, Backety, Bickety, Bah!
Juniors, Juniors, Rah! Rah! Rah!

SONG

(Tune "Peggy O'Neil")

Our class is a class that is loyal and true,
Every one, to the Purple and White,
And I'll put you wise, how you'll recognize,
This class that's a shining light.

CHORUS:

If they're always full of pep,
That's the Junior Class,
If they're as merry as can be,
That's the Junior Class;
If there's nine boys and nine girlies, too,
If they always are polite to you,
No animosity, all generosity,
That's the Junior Class.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

Buzz, buzz, sound the buzzers of the High School on the hill. Once more they are calling the students to their daily tasks; Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors are hurrying to their classes.

Every Sophomore is proud of his class, and has he not good reason to be: Since this class was organized in its Freshman year, it has been filled with spirit. The members did not wait until they were "Sophies" to start to do things, for as Freshmen they excelled in studies and athletics.

Fred Butler and Walter Callahan represented the Freshman Class in the A. H. S. Basketball Team. As they do this year, aided by the reliable Bernard.

The president who guided the interests of the class during its Freshman year was Charles Prickett. This year the studious Ross has taken it upon himself to rule, us, as well.

This class is full of pep! We have lots of spirit left for the following years. Just watch us go!

HELEN I. NEIDHARDT.

SOPHOMORE CLASS POEM

We Sophomores are a jolly class,
  Our number is thirty and some,
All of us, each lad and lass,
  Are far from being dumb.

Into our High School studies,
We started in nineteen-twenty;
We began with pep and vim,
And still have it a'plenty.

While in our Freshman year,
We toiled, did each lad and lass,
And passed without a tear
Into the Sophomore Class.

Now of persons of ability,
Musicians, artists and the same,
We have but a few, and
Pause not to mention their name.

In athletics we rank high,
Shot put, jump and all the rest;
And in games of skill
We are considered with the best.

When we pass out Life's door,
With the lamps of life unlit;
Remember our motto,
"Labor omnia vincit."

CHARLES PRICKETT.

That's us! Every cuss!
We're the Class of Twenty-four.

Oh we're the Sophomores of the A. H. S.
Don't you think we're mighty fine?
Oh, we are there when it comes to the sports,
You'll never find us behind.
Oh, we are there for the good times,
We're there for studies too.
Oh, us—we are the Sophomores,
Don't you wish that you were too?

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

When the fall of 1921 arrived, there arrived with it into Albion High School a class of merry people, called Freshmen. It is indeed a difficult task to make a brief history of such an illustrious class as it is a class full of pep, incentive, drive and spirit.

Although the class does not have a large number going in for athletics, those who do represent the Freshmen in that line, are among the best the school turns out. A Freshman showed his value on the basketball team by being assigned a regular berth. And we are sure to have men who will place on this year's track team.

This class shows up well in its studies, and a large percentage always have their lessons and have them well.

In social activities the class shines again, as we have had many parties and social gatherings where very enjoyable evenings were spent and added much to the already bubbling over Freshman class spirit.

Although our class is not large, you must remember that it is quality and not quantity that counts. When you want to get a look at real class spirit, pep and comradeship and everything that an up and coming class should have, come up and look us over. We've got the spirit!

RALPH R. COLE.

FRESHMAN POEM

Hail! Ye Juniors, Sophomores, Seniors!
Fame and glory are your due.
We, the Freshmen, proudly laud you.
See? We extend our hand to you.

But with all our admiration,
We a warning here must sound,
Guard ye well your hard earned laurels
That to Albion's fame resound.

Have ye won scholastic honors?
They're as naught. Just watch us go.
Have athletics brought you Glory?
Watch the Freshmen's prestige grow.

We have aims, ideals, ambitions;
We have youth and faith and vim;
And we'll climb this tree of learning
Striving for the topmost limb.

Not for self alone, we're striving,
Though our rights none shall deny,
We're working, hustling, boosting
For the name of "Albion High."

FRESHMAN YELL

Hobble gobble! Robble gobble!
Rip-a-raz-a rive!
We're the Class of 1925!
Ring, Rang! Ching, Chang!
Chaw! Chaw! Chaw!
Freshies! Freshies! Rah! Rah! Rah!

FRESHMAN YELL

Tune "Orange and Black"

Although we are just the Freshies,
Of the year of twenty-two
As the pupils of our high school,
To our class mates, we'll hold true;
We will own the pretty colors,
Nor honor shall they lack,
While the Freshies stand defenders
Of the Orange and the Black.

First Chorus

We will own the pretty colors,
Nor honor shall they lack,
While the Freshies stand defenders
Of the Orange and the Black.

Although we are just the Freshies,
Of the year of twenty-two
As the pupils of our high school
To our colors we'll hold true;
We will own the Albion High School,
For its honor shall we fight,
While the Freshies stand defenders
Of the purple and the white.

Second Chorus.

We will own the Albion High School,
For its honor shall we fight,
While the Freshies stand defenders
Of the purple and the white.

TO A. H. S.

Thanks to thee, O worthy school!
Thy blessings on us ever
May no dissension ever rage
And our allegiance sever.

For wisdom we have looked to thee
And thou our boon hath granted
Our portion small as yet, indeed,
But now the germ is planted.

If it matures and waxes great
To thee the praise is due;
For we have only struggled on
And thou has brought us through.

Thanks yet again we offer thee!
The only boon we can bestow
Except to walk uprightly on
And scorn the thing that's base or low.

BASKETBALL PERSONNEL

LEO CLER

Cler, our captain and the "Big Boy" of the team. Without him we were lost and the cup of joy over runneth when we saw him start a dribble down the floor. He has played as a center and a forward. "Big Boy" graduates this year and we feel we are losing one of the best players on the team. '21 and '22.

FRED PRICKETT

"Oswald" playing in '21 and '22. He was one of our fast guards, always keeping watch of his man. About the middle of the season he was out of a few games on account of sickness, but had the spirit to play sub.

HAROLD HUFF

"Ikey," one of our forwards, who played very good ball the whole season, with the exception of one game, he being absent when time for the game to start. Wonder where he was? With this exception he was always slipping in some of his famous side-wheelers. '20, '21 and '22.

WALTER CALLAHAN

"Pus" the basketball shark of '21 and '22. He was an all around man and could be played any place. He was the main player when it came to holding up the spirit and pep of the team. He played regular guard until the middle of the season, when he became crippled in one of his knees. The team missed jolly Pus, greatly, after his accident.

FRANKLIN NOBLES

"Nobes" our little star guard who played only the latter part of the season, playing sub the first part. "Nobes" generally held his man scoreless and surprising a good many of whom he guarded. We are counting on him next year. '22.

FRED BUTLER

"Bus," forward the first of the season and shifted to guard, the latter part. Bus played a good game wherever he was placed. He was a fast guard, not letting his man slip away from him very often. '21 and '22.

BERNARD RIMMEL

"Shene," our little happy man, playing sub. He was right there when he had to play. Some people thought he was our mascot, but were badly fooled when they came to play against him. '22.

DONALD BARCUS

"Noah" being one of our subs, the first of the year was run in as center, the latter part of the year. "Noah" being tall, handled the center very well, scoring in almost every game. '22.

ATHLETICS

At the first meeting of the Athletic Association, the following officers were elected:

President ..... Fred Prickett

Secretary ..... Walter Callahan

Treasurer ..... Bernard Rimmel

Yell Leader ..... Donald Halferty

BOYS' ATHLETICS

The season opened early this year with about twenty sturdy candidates to try for the team.

The spirit was unparalleled and after some hard practicing under the direction of our coach, Mr. Nash, the team was selected.

The entire team was made up of good, clean players, who fought hard throughout every game and were a credit to the Albion High School.

We bumped up against some large and strong teams, but everything was going very well until several of the team "connected with the mumps" and this put a stop to things. We were deprived of of the privilege of going to the District Tournament for this reason.

Athletics take a prominent place in our High School activities and we are very proud that such interest is manifested.

We are deeply indebted to Mr. Nash for the time and care he devoted to the team this last season. His spirit, his interest, and valuable advice helped us more than we can find words to say.

We wish to thank the firm of Schwab & Son for their most kind offer of giving to the members of the first team who made the most field goals, a pair of basket ball shoes, free.

TRACK

Our victory of winning first place in the county field meet last year has given us the proper and needed spirit for this year. We are now in strenuous practice as field day is early in June. As we have the best of material and the proper spirit is manifested, we have an A one chance for the honor this year.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Alice Huston, Mayme Butler, Evelyn Rice, Ruby Edsall, Katherine Beck, Edith Rimmel, Grace Pressler, Sharlette Rogers, Juanita Finley.

Girls enrolled in the fall for basket ball with very much enthusiasm and after several hard practices a team was chosen. The girls were all keen about basket ball and played with lots of pep.

Pressler, '23, had a natural ability to play center and with Rogers, '24, as running center they did some wonderful jumping and team work. The team next year will certainly feel blue because of a serious illness which will prevent Pressie from playing. But Rogers has two more years to show her skill.

Beck, '22, and Evans, '23, were right there. Both Rice, '23, and Evans were little, but mighty. Later Finley, '24, came up and helped because of her long arm reach.

Edsall, '23, and Rimmel, '22, at guard had lots of speed and were always high spirited. Butler, '23, sub guard, small of stature, but a shark at guarding, got to show her ability several times.

Although the team was made up of good material, it was not very fortunate this year, one reason was the inconvenience of practicing in the Opera House. But, better luck to the team next year.

THE CUBS

Ivan Hardenbrook
Frank Kuhn
Bruce Stevenson
Maurice Frymier
Edgar Nowels
Henry Curtiss

The Cubs are a team of real Basketball players, of which the High School is very proud. They are all good, clean fellows, and as much interest in the game is manifested by each one of them, they play a fast, snappy game from start to finish. They started in the game while young and now you see we have excellent material for the High School team for the next few years. By their schedule you can see what they are made of.

THE CALL

All was not going well with Marie of France. Fate was not so kind to the dreamy dark complexioned girl as she had been to her former sisters of the Mother Land.

Time had brought a great war to disturb the little French village from its slumbers among the hills. Such confusion! Everyone was wanting to do his bit. Men did not wait to be asked, but volunteered to give their lives, if necessary, for the welfare of their country. The father of fourteen-year-old Marie volunteered. When the day came to march away, Marie stood with great tears in hre eyes for she realized that this might be the last time she would see her father. Yet those tears were tears of pride. All that day she wondered how she could do her bit.

That night she had a vision. In this vision she saw herself, a second Joan of Arc. "But visions, as mother said, never come true," sighed Marie wistfully. Then because she was sensible and well-trained in the fine arts of home-making, Marie bent all the earned energy of her strong slender body toward making with the old women of the town army garments for the brave fighters.

Endless days they toiled, these women, unflagging, unflinchingly, untiring. With the spirit of their men in the trenches, they conquered the weakness of the flesh. Marie alone, who thought wistfully of the vision, longed with the aspiration of youth for an opportunity to do more for her country.

Night enshrouds the dusky village. Weary women like the soldiers in the trenches care to sleep only to wake for work. A sudden explosion cuts the air. Now the women of the village are too much like many soldiers of the trenches. The town is raided by Germans, an unspeakable thing to do, but nothing is too treacherous or barbarious for them to do.

Marie in anguish and terror crouches by her dead mother's body. No living soul is present, yet Marie awaits death conquered by the enemy instead of helping to conquer them. The dear, dead body moves.

There is a bit of information, an ambush overhead by Marie's mother whom the Germans thought was dead. A small bit of information, but oh! so valuable to the fighting lads, if it is reported in time, it will save many lives.

Would, or, could Marie take to the nearest troops the news? Take it! Why, she would do anything for her beautiful France. The vision again danced before Marie's eyes, leading her on and on. Marie's mother who died a victim of the Huns; brutally gave her a last kiss.

Off started Marie. On and on she crept in the black, dismal night. One minute she was lying still for fear the bullets would strike her, the next minute she was creeping on amid their dreadful whirl that she might not be too late with the information which would mean so much to the soldiers.

At last it came, a blinding, dazing whirl, a bullet did strike her. Would she be able to go on, or would she, too, die, as her mother had done before her, a victim of the Huns' brutality? On she went regardless of pain that she might cheat unkind Fate of a few precious moments. Headquarters were found after a desperate search and she lay panting on the ground beside the commander. As she told the news his eyes grew large with wonder. She ceased speaking.

Suddenly the commander realized fully what this news meant to him and his troops. They could be prepared for the treacherous attack, thus they could save many soldiers. Thoughts of victory added new strength.

The men did everything possible for Marie, but her life gradually ebbed away. Before she died, again came the vision, a second Joan of Arc. She, too, had given the greatest sacrifice that is enabled to man to give for his country, his life.

MUMPS

In the winter of 1922, a calamity—or rather an epidemic spread throughout the school.

Of course, it was just my hard luck to have them first. I had perfectly lovely, healthy looking mumps. On both sides, too; I proceeded with an infection of the face due to the mumps. All told, I looked anything but handsome.

My friends were very, very sympahetic. Yes, indeed, they came to the windows of my bedroom and laughed at me.

Iodine, camphor and aspirin, I took of freely. That is, with iodine and camphor I coaxed my skin to become more normal. As for aspirin, I swallowed it by the box to obtain relief from the rest of my ailments.

Every day, mourned over my mumps, but when Saint Valentine's Day came, I had cause to resent them more and more. The most high and honorable seniors were giving a party for the other classes of the high school. All the benefit I received from this occasion was an invitation. I tried to console myself with eating an apple. Alas! My jaws grew stiff and numb. Needless to say I didn't finish the apple.

My chum, brought me a pile of magazines for which I was grateful and felt inclined to give thanks for more than once. You see, it was something I could enjoy, without bothering my jaws.

Although I was still very wobbly, I decided to get up on the sixth day. I began to feel better when my jaws started back on the road to normalcy and my appetite increased. By the middle of the week I was glad to go back to school. Yes, I could even think of Caesar without groaning.

THE ROSEBUD

Out into the garden I wandered
One bleak, November morn,
To see if any tiny flower
The damp and cold would scorn.

I searched the garden over
And was just about to depart
When I looked in a bushy corner
Where the rose bushes grew apart.

There I saw one baby rosebud,
Just pushing its way to the light,
I felt that such a tender blossom
Could not withstand the cold and blight.

"Ah little Rosebud," said I,
"How can you proudly lift your head
On such a dreary day as this
When all your fair sisters are dead?"

"Did you not hear the northwind
That blew so hard in the night?

Did you not notice the driving rain
That only stopped with the coming of light?"

The rose it answered never a word
But rather seemed to toss its head
As though it would have scorn'd
To be among the dead.

But I noted the overhanging clouds
Which would before grey night
Pour over all the earth below
The snow so pure and white.

So from damp leaves the rose I pluck'd
To carry it with me, about
And now it stands before me
And watches the snow fall without.

JUST A KID

Yes, he was just a red-headed, freckled-faced pug-nosed kid. His name was Michael, but he was better known as "Freckles." Such a kid is never separate from mischief and adventure, consequently from trouble.

Mother kissed Michael who promised to be very good until her return from the Ladies' Aid Society. Michael, too young to know that his honor was concerned in a promise, began to get one of those mischievous streaks, as his mother called them, so he started out.

The cooky jar was empty. Well, it could do no good to hope for more so he passed on. But the pantry door was open, that suggested something to eat. As stealthily as a panther, he surveyed the pantry shelves with an anxious look of hunger on his face. He searched around, everything was empty. It did not look as if there was going to be anything to eat that afternoon. All at once upon the third shelf he spied a jar.

Now, that jar never could go uninvestigated. One chair was too low, so Freckles got another chair and put on top. When he had climbed it, the label "Raspberry Jam" met his rewarded gaze.

But he tottered in the air as he grasped for the jam. Lo and behold, chairs, shelves, and jam fell to the floor along with Freckles. He was pinned under the second shelf from which he tried in vain to get out. Footsteps! He knew the worst was yet to come.

'TWAS JUST AN OLD FASHIONED GARDEN

Miss Priscilla Lowne softly crept out of the back door and disappeared in the fragrant shadows of the garden. It was about ten o'clock, most good people were in bed, all but the best, you know. Miss Priscilla seated herself on the rustic bench to wait.

Presently she heard the bushes swaying and saw them part and who should steal through them but a very unexpected person. It was her own sister, Susan. Yes, there was no mistake about that, it was Susan. What was she here at this time of night for? To spy, perhaps, but that was not like Susan. Had she discovered Priscilla's secret?

Susan turns, in a moment her eyes will be upon Priscilla who crouches deeper into the shadow of the gigantic elm above her rustic seat. If I had worn anything but white, thought Priscilla—but Susan turns to meet Mr. John Serron, her fiancé, as again the bushes are parted.

A low whistle comes from the rose arbor. There is Daniel. This time you are late. Do not whistle again or our secret engagement will be discovered even in this quaint, unmolested garden. Surely we are already discovered. She sat tense, dreaded to move but more to hear another whistle.

But Susan and John had reached the farther corner of the garden where the bluebells and marigolds grew. Priscilla and Daniel seated themselves on the rustic bench contented that their secret was not discovered, happy that their meeting place could still be the old fashioned garden.

THE TENNIS MATCH

On the court the champions stand,
Waiting the signal for the start;
The breathless crowd holds itself in hand
And now the players part.

Each grips his racquet tight,
At first is "Ready," then is "Serve!"
The watchers now excited fight
To see the ball! to watch it swerve!

The set advances, excitement grows!
The players now are dripping sweat,
And then—a mighty shout arose
By one the ball has passed unmet!

The final game is being played!
Excitement reigns at fever heat,
The end is by a deuce delayed!
Spectators rise! One must defeat!

The victor shakes the vanquished's hand,
The judge descends from his high seat,
The crowd arises in the stand
And praises the victor for his feat.

—Davis Black, Freshman.

THE GHOST'S HOUR

On a very dark, September night, an unfortunate Freshie started from his home to go down town. However, he did not think of the fact that his class was being seriously oppressed by the burden of its initiation.

Although this certain Freshie started for town, he never reached his destination. About half way he was surrounded by a mob of boys from some of the upper classes, but it was too dark for him to recognize his oppressors. Struggle was useless since he was not able to escape from those who held his legs and arms.

Next the Freshie was blindfolded and compelled to walk between the boys like a prisoner of war. After he had walked what seemed to him a very great distance in the mud, he was brought abruptly to a halt. He felt heavy cords draw him tightly against iron rods, which as he supposed, was part of a large gate. When he was securely tied, his blind fold was removed and the gang of boys departed.

The Freshie instantly realized that he was tied to a large vault door, in the center of the graveyard with all the spooks and ghosts of the night, (for such are the thoughts of all Freshies when they are alone in the dark).

As the boy stood, shivering in front of the vault, strange moaning sounds came to his ears and strange visions passed before his eyes in which he saw white objects running back and forth. Other numerous thoughts which passed through his brain frightened him.

When about an hour had passed which to the Freshman was the longest in his life, the boys returned, untied him, and pronounced him initiated into the high school.

SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The annual banquet given on Thursday evening, May 12, by the Juniors of the Albion high school in honor of the Seniors, was held at the beautiful and spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Prickett.

The Juniors converted a modern home into a veritable Japanese fairyland. Branches of pink and white flowers were festooned here and there through the reception hall and rooms, making a very unique background for the delicate light shed from many candles and myriad colored lantern balloons, which were hung from the archways and chandeliers. The odor of incense filled the air.

At 6:30 the guests began to arrive and were greeted at the door by charming Japanese maidens who escorted them to the dressing rooms.

The tables, arranged in the form of the letter Z, were such that the entire party of fifty could be seated at once. The table appointments carried out the Japanese color scheme, with their tall vases of cut flowers, nut cups in the shape of chrysanthemums, and here and there a miniature Japanese floating garden and carved ivory garden sets. The dinner consisting of six delicious courses, was served by the same dainty Japanese maidens who welcomed the guests at the door.

Toasts, given by some of the Juniors, Seniors and members of the faculty, together with a number of "original" poems, were interspersed between the courses.

Later in the evening the Juniors entertained the Seniors and guests with a musical and literary program. One of the Juniors, for a few short moments, lifted the veil and gave the Seniors a passing glimpse into their future careers.

At a late hour the Juniors sang the farewell song to the Seniors after which the guests wended their way homeward, each carrying with him the memory of a very pleasant evening.

The Juniors may be congratulated on their effort as the event was a great success from every standpoint. Music furnished by the Kendallville orchestra gave added pleasure to an already delightful evening.

SKETCH OF SOPHOMORE CLASS COLOR

We Sophomores decided to deal sparingly with our class money this year and only gave one or two parties.

So after long deliberation and disappointments, Elizabeth Haney agreed to entertain us at her home.

The night of the party was bleak and cold. The roads were so drifted with snow that but few of our country scholars were able to come. Considering the weather, however, we had a large gathering.

Many games were played. Music and singing were only a part of the evening's entertainment. Rook was also a popular game.

As the night was cold, it was only right that the "eats" should be hot. "Eats" consisted of hot dog, hot buns, hot cocoa and wafers.

All told, we all agreed that we had spent a very enjoyable evening, and Betty is to be complimented as a most delightful hostess.

FRESHMAN CLASS PARTIES

The Freshmen have had four class parties all of which were greatly enjoyed.

The first party was held at the home of Miss Edith Herron who then resided about eight miles southeast of town. The day of the party dawned with a drizzling rain from the east, that put the roads in an awful condition. To make matters worse, the blood-thirsty Sophs (as they call themselves, discount 99%) had wind of the party, but it was later found that the place was unknown to them. Nevertheless they vowed to clip the hair of our brave Freshmen lads at the party. For once the Sophomores were fooled.

At last the time for starting came, and the various machines driven by Edgar Nowels, Gerald Todd and Davis Black arrived. After a very exciting trip we reached our destination.

A very enjoyable evening was spent and dainty refreshments were served. We all agreed that Miss Herron was a delightful entertainer.

The homeward journey was uneventful, save that Davis went in the ditch once, but for his sake we refrain to relate the incidents that followed.

You will wonder if we did not have more parties after such an enjoyable beginning. Well, you may be sure there were others. They occurred at the home of Davis Black on November 9, 1921; at the home of Gerald Todd, December 22, 1921, and last but not least was the enjoyable time spent on the first of February, 1922, at the home of Miss Leone Grate, south of town.

Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves at the Black home, where all kinds of games were played. Very nice refreshments were served, including special little cookies, each bearing the emblem of the class of '25.

One of the enjoyable features at the Todd home, was the appropriate decoration in the Orange and Black, our class colors. After dainty refreshments, we all departed for home, thinking the evening had been well spent.

The party at Leone Grate's home was very enjoyable. Upper classmen overheard a Freshman boy say: "Gee, didn't we have some eats at Leone's?"

Indeed I am sure that the Freshmen will not soon forget these pleasant evenings and I am sure that they will remain vividly in the minds of each member of the illustrious "Class of '25."

—Ralph Cole.

SENIOR VALENTINE PARTY

Saturday evening, February 12, 1922, the Albion high school was again the scene of festivity. About eighty-five students and teachers were present to enjoy the hospitality of the Seniors.

The upper hall had been decorated in red and white festoons joined to large arrows and hearts. Here the entertainment of the evening, consisting of well planned contests, was carried out. Guessing the number of hearts in a glass can was tried, first. Franklin Nobles was the winner of all hearts in this.

Next the pinning of a tail on a donkey produced some big surprises as to the anatomy of this well known quadruped. Then the climbing of Love's Ladder though really just the same old ladder that leads to the third story, brought a new thrill, when it became Cupid's path to Romance. A heart Scramble was given next, which was quite exciting.

In all the contests the boys seemed to be the star performers for they won all the prizes. Strange, you may think but Hearts seemed to be trump throughout and A. H. S. boys are right there in the game of Hearts.

Refreshments of frankfurters, sandwiches, pickles, jello salad and doughnuts were served and reserved until every one would not or really could not eat any more.

After a little more singing and a few more extemporaneous stunts the party broke up, every one agreeing that the Seniors were wonderful entertainers.

THE STAGE

The class of '22 is noted for its theatrical ability, having given two class plays, one in our Junior year and one in our Senior year. The talent and material in this class are of the best and after hours of hard work on the part of ourselves and our director, Mr. D. M. Gatwood, these plays were well staged.

"SAFETY FIRST"

A farce comedy in three acts, was given at the Albion Opera House, Thursday evening, December 16, 1920, by the following cast of characters:

Jack Montgomery, a young husband ..... Lee Matthews
Jerry Arnold, an unsuccessful fixer ..... Fred Prickett
Mr. McNutt, a defective detective ..... Leo Cler
Elmer Flannel, awfully shrinking ..... Forrest Hoffman
Abou Ben Mocha, a terrible Turk ..... Carl Gappinger
Mabel Montgomery, Jack's wife ..... Athene Clayton
Virginia Bridger, her sister ..... Katherine Beck
Mrs. Barrington-Bridger, their mother ..... Eva Seymoure
Zuleika, a Turkish maiden ..... Evelyn Morr
Mary Ann O'Finnerty, the Irish cook ..... Vera Callahan

Time: Today.

Place: In suburbs of a large city.

STORY OF THE PLAY

Its leading role is that of an innocent and inoffensive young husband, Jack Montgomery, who is plunged into the abyss of the law after trying to rescue a Turkish maiden from the hands of the police. Jack and his chum, Jerry, visit Zuleika to aid the interests of Jack's cousin, Elmer Flannel, a shrinking young man. Jack, Jerry and Zuleika are arrested and sentenced to thirty days in jail.

In order to keep the disgrace from Jack's wife, Mabel, and Jerry's fiancee, Virginia, they tell them that they are going to a convention of Shriners by boat. The scheme works and Mabel and Virginia bid them a tearful farewell. In the second act the ladies have received word from the steamboat company that Jack and Jerry are not to be found on board and have probably been washed overboard and drowned. They are heart-broken and don deep mourning for the loved ones they never expect to see again.

Jack and Jerry, in jail, know nothing of this, and when their thirty days expire they return to the ladies full of joy and explanations of their wonderful trip to Florida. It takes some tall explaining to show why they were not drowned, and when Mrs. Bridger, the mother of the girls, learns that Zuleika has been missing for thirty days, she naturally thinks that she accompanied the boys to Florida. Mabel decides to return to her mother's roof and never see Jack again.

The third act straightens out the tangle after a series of laughable events culminating in an elopement down a ladder in which Jack, who thinks he is eloping with Mabel, his wife, finds that the lady he is running away with is the Irish cook, Mary Ann O'Finnerty.

The play moves briskly along with culminating effect, incident succeeds incident, and in the end we find it is always best to observe our motto, "Safety First."

BASHFUL MR. BOBBS

SENIOR PLAY

Presented December 7, 1921, at the Albion Opera House by the following cast of characters:

Katherine Henderson, a young wife.....Katherine Beck
Frederick Henderson, her husband .....Leo Cler
Mrs. Wiggins, the landlady .....Vera Callahan
Obiadiah Stump, a fresh country product.....Lee Matthews
Frances Whittaker, an athletic girl .....Mary Yost
Rosalie Otis, a society bud .....Edith Rimmel
Mrs. Robert V. Bobbs, the bashful one .....Fred Prickett
Jean Graham, a Delaware peach .....Athene Clayton
Marston Bobbs, anything but bashful .....Virgil Conrad
Celesta Van Derpoole, of the "movies" .....Velma Seip
Jule, her French maid .....Helen Hardenbrook

Time—Day before yesterday.
Place—Any suburb.

STORY OF THE PLAY

Everything goes wrong in the Bay View Hotel between Katherine Henderson and Frederick, her hen-pecked husband; Katherine's sister, Jean Graham, has been expecting her fiance, who fails to appear, when Obiadiah Stump followed by Frances Whittaker, rush in and say that Mr. Bobbs and his car are stuck in the creek. A flood of excitement follows, and Rosalie Otis' heart is fluttering when the forlorn looking Mr. Bobbs enters the hotel. Jean says that he is not Marston Bobbs. "Is he a burglar?" "No, Obiodiah says that he has been given an alibi." Just then, Robert V. Bobbs walks in, introducing himself as Marston's cousin. He explains that Marston cannot come because of neuralgia, and hands a letter to Jean, which calls her "Fascinating Fluffy." In the confusion, Marston enters the hotel, limping because of sciatica, but changes his looks when he finds out that he has neuralgia. The commotion is climaxed when he explains that he was writing his letter in his cousin's room, and the letters were mixed. Marston learns that Celesta Vanderpool, his Fascinating

Fluffy, the movie star to whom he was formerly engaged. He and Robert decide to get Marston's letters out of Celesta's trunk, but are caught in the act by Celesta. Much excitement is culminated, but after many explanations the tide turns. Obadiah also makes a hit with Julie, whom he takes to the show, and Robert and Jean (as they say in the movies) live happily ever after.

These productions were appreciated by all who saw them and were proclaimed a decided success.

DECEMBER

2. Basket Ball team defeats Garrett. 28-6.
5. Seniors flashing their new class rings.
6. Why all the excitement? Oh! Fishers' Orchestra coming tonight.
7. Senior class play one big success.
8. But today's the dirty work. Cleaning up the Opera House.
9. "The Battle of Waterloo."
12. Don Favinger surely must have the sleeping flu.
13. "Franklin's Autobiography" is the latest book out. At least, all the Seniors are reading it.
14. Teachers telling us to get busy. Exams. next week.
15. A tired and sleepy bunch today. Too much dance last night.
16. All the students carrying home books.
19. Just a cold, wet, freezing day.
20. Seniors took class play to Cromwell.
21. Lots of pink cheeks and black eyebrows today. Eh? Seniors!
22. Well, we're in it. Examinations.
23. Now, a grand and glorious Christmas vacation.

JANUARY

2. Everybody back to the brain factory. Mr. Prickett suggests that we start out 1922 by making some New Year's "revolutions."
3. Sophies have the blues because they all flunked in Caesar. Cheer up, children, the worst is yet to come (Seniors' advice).
4. Evelyn is in the dumps. Cuffy has gone back to college.
5. Terrible robbery took place last night. Took Miss Brown's sweater and fifteen cents.
6. B. B. Boys beat Wawaka. Girls lived up to former reputation and "got rimmed."

9. Numerous staff and class meetings.
10. Rev. Franklin gave an interesting address in a. m.
11. Those eighth grade boys each correspond with from four to nine girls.
12. Seniors went to Garrett to have their pictures taken.
13. Just our luck. Exam. over Constitution of U. S. A.
16. Picture proofs here. Few of the Seniors realize they're not so handsome as they thought.
17. Danny, Velma and Athene went back to Garrett to try it over.
18. Seniors get off in p. m. to take their play to Wolf Lake. Mary didn't appear on the stage and we learned that she was locked in the dressing room.
19. Say! Doesn't Donald Halferty get the most letters?
20. We met another defeat at LaGrange. Treated to an oyster stew after the game.
23. The tremometers say 00000.
24. "What did you say about Mounted Police, Ikey?" "Does she still live at Nappanee?"
25. Gerald and Franklin are always studying in Room 5.
26. High School night at M. E. church.
27. Thinking of taking up a collection for a new clock in Assembly Room. The old one just won't run.
30. We don't know what he did, but we know he was canned. Poor Charles.
31. Chink and Don are racing to see which one can read the most magazines.

FEBRUARY

1. "Why, Mary, you had to stay after school. Who'd a thunk it?"
2. Subject: Danny. Maybe he has 35c and maybe he hasn't, but his hair is awful long.
3. Junior Geometry class rapdily increasing. Five Seniors now taking part.
6. "Ruby, the only reason that Harold isn't a good boy is because you are forever pestering him."
7. So Ruby starts to "quitpestering."
8. Pus is parting his hair in the middle. Of all the frivolous boys.
9. Click! Clack! They're wearing hob nails to school.
10. Seniors preparing for Valentine Party.
12. Back to school. Still a few remains of party.
14. Sheen, Ike, Leo, Noah and Bus have the mumps.
15. The girls all receive valentines from their best beaux.
16. Settled down to work.

17. A new song "Forget-me-not" for the H. S. chorus.
20. Sharlette's got 'em. Oh! You mumps.
21. The A. H. S. has lost Grace Pressler by her serious illness.
22. Not very pleasant now days. Too many out of school.
23. Even Miss Brown is preparing to leave us. What is this world coming to?
24. Mump victims drifting back to school.
27. Poor Ikey; did that shaking up hurt you?
28. Eighth graders royally entertained us with a program.

MARCH

1. Henry sails around in those long trousers like he owns the world.
2. Virgil broke his chair and took another spill in Physics class.
3. What's the matter, Carl? Oh! You got an electric shock!
6. Wouldn't that jar you? Just a spit."
7. Garrett photographer here to take pictures of Freshies, Sophies, and Juniors.
8. Caesar assignment: "All Sophomores bring ponies to class." Great commotion.
9. Eighth grade arithmetic. "Things equal to the same thing are equal to what?" asks Mr. Prickett.
   Brilliant pupil: "An axiom."
10. Anything to be in style. Miss Hudgens has the mumps.
13. Preparing for quarterly exams. again.

DID YOU EVER SEE A WOODEN INDIAN LAUGH?
JOKE

JOKES

Life is a jest, and all things show it;
I thought so once, and now I know it.

Speaking of religion, Carl Gappinger asserts that he is a hard-boiled Baptist. (Meaning hard-shelled.)

Katherine: "Haven't you a new pair of shoes, Mary?"
Mary: "No, just a shine."

Warren's advice to the Freshies: "Never take deportment as it is so difficult to make the grades."

One of the Seniors in History informed the class that De Soto died of hay fever. (Thanks for the knowledge, Athene.)

Danny to one of the Freshman infants—"It's all off."
Puzzled Freshie: "What's off?"
Danny: "Hair on a bald man's head."

English class—Mr. Van Gorder: "There are eight divorces up in court this week."
Vera: "No, just seven. One woman died."

"If the shoe fits, put it on, but of course if you are a woman, you will want it one or two sizes smaller."

Small girl seeing peacock for the first time, "Oh look! that chicken is in bloom."

Mr. Van Gorder in History class:
"Leo, who were the Jesuits?"
Leo: "A tribe of Indians."

English class—Mr. Van Gorder: "When an engagement is broken, the girl gives back the ring. "Isn't that right, Lee?"
Lee: "I always find it so."

(Parody on Maud Muller)
Helen Hardenbrook, on a March day,
Eloped to Michigan, so they say.

Alas for Helen, alas for Murray,
God pity them both. Why such a hurry?

Ah, well may joy abide the while,
She was just a Senior "in style."

Garnett in Dom. Sci. class: "Juanita, I don't like your back."
Juanita: "I'm sorry, Garnett, I'd remove it if I could."

Mr. Prickett: "Donald, what is the difference between an explorer and a discoverer?"
Donald Barcus: "An explorer is a person that hunts for something and a discoverer is the one that finds it." (Junior wit.)

"Many are exposed to an education but few take it."—Mr. Van Gorder.

"Be it ever so homely there's no face like your own."—Our latest song hit.

Why, Susie ---!
Go!
WHEW!
HIGH-AND-DRY.

MAUDE MULLER

Katherine: "What is the shape of a kiss?"

Ike: "Give me one and we'll call it square."

Where's the school a going
An' what's it goin' to do,
An' how's it goin' to do it,
When we Seniors get through?

Pus to his father: "Can you sign your name with your eyes shut?"

Father: "Why of course."

Pus: "Then shut your eyes and sign my report."

"If there's anything worse than a long haired man, it's a short haired woman."—By a Junior.

Katherine relating a story in English:

"The girl went out into the garden and gathered some strawberries and ice cream."

Geo. Class—Mr. Prickett: "Donald, define dust."

Donald Barcus: "Mud with the juice squeezed out."

Sharlette: 'Bernard, where did you get your education?"

Bernard: "Why, me dad used to take me over his knee. He made me smart."

Mr. Van Gorder: "Fred, do you like Shakespearean roles?"

Fred: "I never ate any."

Don Favinger wonders if they ever sell condensed sleep put up in large quantities.

Bones to Bones,
And skin to skin;
Ain't it heck
When a feller's thin?
—Virgil.

Miss Brown: "Charles, I want you to quit laughing out loud here in the assembly room."

Charles: "I didn't mean to. I was just smiling, and the smile busted."

Vera: "I only wrote four letters this morning."

Crazy Horse: "What are you doing? Taking a correspondence course?"

I hear that Althea was so hungry the other noon that she went in Room 5 and ate off the arm of a chair. Now we know where the arms of the chairs are going.

Porter: "I really don't think teachers ought to be paid much because they make the kids do all the work."

Miss Huggens: "What route did Marmion take?"

Charles Stevenson: "Sassafras root."

Farmer: "Did your auto break down?"

Raymond: "Yes, sir."

Farmer: "Forty horse-power and they all "balked."

Physics class. Mr. Nash: "Edith, what is a definition for density?"

Edith: "Me." (And no one disputed her.)

MIRROR

Now don't tell this but Mr. Van Gorder confessed the other day that he was still spunkey about a whipping he had had when he was a boy.

Hilda: "Did you ever take chloroform?"

Mary: "No, who teaches it?"

Physics:—Little drops of acid,
Little grains of zinc
Placed inside a testing-tube,
Make an awful—odor.

Mr. Nash: "The more you study Physics, the less you find that you know about things in general."

Forrest: "Let's quit right here, then."

Mr. Nash (in Physics): "What condition would we all be in if the air should become entirely saturated?"

Velma: "I think we'd all be pretty well soaked."

The other day Edith Rimmel looked at the list of answers in the back of her book, turned pale and fell back limply in her seat. Upon the anxious inquiry of her neighbors she exclaimed: "I got that darned problem."

Mr. Van Gorder: "Have you read 'Freckles'?"

Donald Barcus: "Why er—mine are brown."

Bake Sale.
by who————????!!
Girls' B. B. Team.
('member this?)

Mr. Van Gorder says the boy who smokes cigarettes doesn't have to worry about his future because he hasn't any. This reminds me of the principal parts of the Latin verb: Smoko, smkere, sicki.

Franklin: "They've been going together for a long time, haven't they?"

Edgar: "Who?"

Franklin: "Why, your feet, of course; you rummy."

Mary (in friendly tone): "By the way, are you going to take supper anywhere tomorrow evening?"

Fred (eagerly): "Why, no—not that I know of."

Mary (serenely): "My, won't you be hungry the next morning?"

Lives of great men all remind us,
We need lots of push behind us.

Drama in Three Acts.

Act 1. Raymond Cler and three pies.
Act 2. Raymond Cler.
Act 3. Doctor.

Helen N.: "I smell smoke."

Chink: "Yes, that is, That little spark of love still burning."

Sandy Rogers (in Geom. class): "How long is a point, Prof?"

Garnett: "I didn't think last summer was very hot."

Don: "Why where were you—in Alaska?"

Mr. Prickett: "What is an astrologer?"

Miss Hudgens after giving the Caesar class a lecture on using Latin Ponies, which were being circulated among the class, startled the class by reciting the "piece of literature" below:

"You can lead a horse to water, but you cannot make it drink.
"You can use a Latin pony, but you cannot make it think."

Mr. Nash: "What kind of interest is this?"

Mary: "Simple."

Sharlette: "Well it may be simple interest, but that problem is not true to it's name."

In History there was a peculiar smell of rubber burning.

Mr. Prickett: "Charles did you put anything on the stove?"

Don: "Oh! that was just his neck burning."

It is rumored about that Porter has been exposed to the mumps.

Eh? Helen!

Mr. Prickett: "Where were you two boys that you are late for class?"

Charles: "I was with Henry."

Henry: "I was with Charles."

Mr. P.: "Where were both of you?"

Boys: "Together."

Mr. Prickett: "How many cows can be fed on the silage in a silo (Mr. P. having given the dimensions, the answer was eight and a fraction.)

Carl: "Eight cows and a calf."

Mr. Nash is getting very religious, he goes to chuch twice on Sunday, and every time he goes into the Post Office, he says "Grace."

While reciting one day Mary paused a moment and then said, "Charlemagne was crowned—"

Chink: "With a brick."

Mr. Nash: "Charles bring me that paper wad."

Charles: "Er—I can't."

Mr. N.: "Why not?"

Charles: "I just swallowed it."

Mr. Prickett: "Has anyone any thing to say in regard to omens or signs?"

Henry: "How's come that you are supposed to make sauer kraut on the 19th of November?"

His question went unanswered.

Mr. Prickett: "Where do ostrich feathers come from." (Meaning what country.)

Bernard: "They come from the ostrich."

Mr. Prickett: "What is the religious belief of the Christians in regard to the after life?"

Charles: 'Only two ways to go —up or down."

Charles: "A star-gazer."

Mr. Van Gorder has requested that beds be supplied for people who are inclined to sleep and snore aloud (during school hours) which greatly disturbs the studious students of the Assembly.

MIRROR

Mr. Nash: "Charles, aren't you leaving something out of that second equation?"

Charles: "Yes."

Mr. Nash: "What?"

Charles: "Nothing (Meaning zero)."

Mr. Nash: "Anna your problem is rather short."

Mary: "And sweet."

Kenneth: "The Romans used their roads for the transportation of the heavy artillery."

Mr. Prickett: "What sort of heavy artillery did the Romans have in 246 B. C.?"

K.: "Why—er elephants."

Algebra II was solving problems in which an imaginary "i" had to be substituted for a minus one, and Mr. Nash was trying to solve the problem without doing this.

Mary: "Mr. Nash, you cannot solves that problem like that."

Nash: "Well, if you would use your i's (eyes) you could probably get it."

Nash: "Well, Mary, I guess that's about right."

Mr. Van Gorder: "What was that noise?"

Don (at blackboard): "Oh! I just dropped a perpendicular to a line."

A Riddle.

When does a fellow need a friend the most?

Ans. When the teachers are making out our deportment grades.

Found: Oats in Room 5.
Someone must have been feeding their (Latin) pony.

Ashes to ashes and dust to dust,
If Geometry don't kill us, then
Latin must.

Warning to Sophomores:

O! never use a pony,
Whatever you may do.
For ponies carry tales, you know
And they may tell on you.

MERCHANDISE OF QUALITY

Today the reputation for handling only goods of quality, and these at fair prices, is a merchant's most valuable asset. Our customers, it is true, cannot be infallible judges of value in each purchase. They can, however, over a period of time, form an accurate estimate of the quality of the goods we handle.

We strive to consistently meet the obligation of giving our patrons goods of absolute integrity and advocate only merchandise of recognized merit.

We mention here a few of the quality lines you can find at our store.

Bradley Knit Goods	LaPorte Dress Fabrics	Kingsbury Hats
R. and G. Corsets	Sunlight Yarns	Hallmark Shirts
Armor Plate Hosiery	Bigelow Hartford Rugs	E. and W. Collars

The Most Complete Book on Annuals Ever Published Can be Secured Absolutely Free

IT EXPLAINS to the business manager and editor by the use of illustrations and with the utmost simplicity proper methods to be used in laying out the dummy, grouping, designing, making panels, selecting proper photographs, selling advertising, selling Annuals to say nothing of explaining thoroughly hundreds of technical problems that will confront the staff.

This great book is only a part of the Stafford service. Our experience gained in handling hundreds of Annuals is at your command; your plans and problems will receive individual and careful attention.

The staff of this publication for whom we furnished engravings will confirm these statements.

Write to us as soon as you are elected and we will tell you how to secure a copy of "Engravings for College and School Publications" free of charge.
